

I enjoy no longer having my answering machine filled with automated messages from businesses that I have no interest in.

I enjoy no longer having to screen my calls at night and weekends, or being awakened by telemarketer calls.

In essence, I enjoy not being bothered in my home. If I require a service, I know how to find it through normal commercial advertising/Yellow pages. Unrequested solicitations do not motivate a purchase, and only less than scrupulous businesses profit from such solicitations.
